

“TOGETHER WE CAN GROW BETTER” VIDEO ORDER FORM

Are you interested in development and conservation in your community, region, or state? Do you wonder, “Where do we grow from here?” If so, you may be interested in a video called Together We Can Grow Better. This 12-minute video introduces topics associated with creating and preserving livable communities and helps to illustrate some development-related concepts and issues. It was designed to be of use to the general public, land use boards and commissions, and other municipal officials.

SURVEY REPORTS

Regional Development Issues Survey. This brief report presents the results of the survey on growth/conservation issues and policies conducted by the UConn Center For Survey Research and Analysis. The survey provides insight into the views of citizens from three municipalities. And because we chose an urban, suburban, and rural municipality, the responses also provide an indication of citizens’ views in general.

Smart Growth Planning and Zoning Recommendations from the Visual Preference Survey. A Visual Preference Survey is a planning tool that enables us to ask questions about development by using pictures. This pictorial report provides survey results and recommendations.

BEST PRACTICES MANUAL

Livable Communities Toolkit: A Best Practices Manual For Metropolitan Regions. This toolkit presents practical approaches to regional and local development. The toolkit has two sections: A Region In Balance describes actions taken by other regions around the country and provides some steps we might take toward a broader statewide approach to building balanced, livable communities.

Tools For Towns covers eight development topics. For each topic, we provide a quick and easy-to-read Fact Sheet to introduce the tool and a Technical Analysis that provides more detail on the “how-to’s”, including some of the challenges, how it’s been used in other places, and a model or sample zoning ordinance.
